Website content disclaimer

At Jet-Stream, we like to keep things in the open. We share detailed information about how we work, our customer satisfaction, prices etc. We are proud of that. And at the same time, we explain under which conditions this information is shared.

Ownership

A no brainer, right? ;) As an innovator, we have unfortunately experienced that others have copied our content, ideas, IPR etc. and used, even published it as their own. So here we go: All content on our website(s) is owned by Jet-Stream Services BV ('Jet-Stream'). You are authorized to access and view the information and content found on this website only under the following conditions:

Basically: respect our work and interests, darn it :)

All other logos, product names, materials and trademarks are the trademarks or copyright of their respective owners. We respect third party copyrights as a policy. Therefore, we always purchase licenses for third party content. We don't claim any ownership on third party material. We may however use third party logo's, possibly without consent which we solely use to inform our audience which cool technologies, services or business we have integrated. If you have a problem with us promoting you (why?), feel free to reach out. We also use third party photographs for which we always intend to purchase the right licenses – if we can find the original copyright owner. If we are using a photo which you think is your copyright, and you think we haven't purchased the right license: reach out to us and we will work out a fair deal, ok?

Warranty

We continuously optimise our services to our customers. We develop and release so agile that our services can be ahead of what is described online.

We welcome your critique. If you find anything amiss on this website, drop us an e-mail on support@jet-stream.com. We really appreciate that.
